Duty to Warn

My Prayer Minister, Louise Zevan, has advised me that during my healing process I may get in touch with some deep root or intimate issues in my life. As they surface I may experience my feelings more intensely, and that may include responses that cause me to experience anger, judgment, resentment, depression, anxiety, apprehension, insomnia or other responses that may be temporarily disturbing to me and to others.

I understand this process of prayer ministry is deep and intensive, bringing healing and potential life changes. Therefore, I indemnify and hold harmless my Prayer Minister for any of my negative personal responses to the prayer ministry process that I encounter.

I have been warned that I may (or will) experience some radical changes in how I make life choices in the future as the result of this prayer ministry process. I will not hold my prayer counselor responsible for new choices I may make that affect my life's routine.

As a condition, and with the above considerations in mind, I prayerfully and carefully enter into this prayer counseling/inner healing seeking to receive all that God has for me in my healing process.
